AYURVEDA – The Science of Life

Amla (Emblica Officinalis) is known from ancient times in India for its medicinal and therapeutic potential. Sushruta, father of the ancient "Ayurveda" (The Science of Life) system of medicine, mentioned its therapeutic potential during 1500-1300 bc.

"Rasayana" is one of the 8 components of Ayurveda that focuses on enhancing good health, boosting the immune system and rejuvenating and revitalizing the body and mind.

This is a superb antioxidant that belongs in the plethora of rare superberries. Its antioxidant abilities create a deep foundation for its unique healing properties.

The many healing properties of Curcumin are some of the most exciting discoveries in the field of functional medicine. It counters inflammation, detoxifies excess estrogen, supports the body's antioxidant system and helps deal with several diseases.

AYURVEDA – The Science of Life

ICSC has designed a series of products combining the healing properties of Amla, Curcumin and Omega-3 and using the powerful Internal Stabilization technology.

These beauty care products are available as oil and butter.

The prolonged shelf-life of these oils and butters means that the final applications will also have increased/prolonged shelf life.

These all-natural Ayurvedic Amla, Curcumin and Omega-3 enriched products will provide high-performance, elegant feeling and will provide healing properties in any application when using designing Natural cosmeceuticals
